

Integrated approach to skills training

DEKRA Industrial and its adult-based education and occupational skills training division, the Institute of Learning (IOL), are committed to offering a holistic service across many different sectors, including the petrochemical industry.

By seamlessly integrating non-destructive testing (NDT) and inspection services with its IOL, the company provides a holistic solution for clients focused on maintaining operational excellence and adhering to stringent safety and compliance standards.

This integrated approach allows Dekra Industrial to act as a strategic partner, addressing immediate inspection needs while simultaneously enhancing the skills and competency of the workforce. Co-located offices in key industrial hubs like Sasolburg and Secunda further reinforce this strategy, ensuring accessible and complete service portfolios for petrochemical clients.

The combined expertise delivers a range of crucial services to the sector, including NDT inspections, vendor inspections, welding inspections, and safety consulting. This ensures that petrochemical operations meet rigorous quality benchmarks and regulatory requirements.