Be careful

LEAVING your car behind while you take a stroll through the nearby shops could mean never seeing it again. According to police, theft from car washes is a growing trend and there have been several incidents in Johannesburg recently. Often the thief manages to convince the car wash staff that he or she is a friend of the car owner. King Price Insurance advises motorists to ensure that they only hand their vehicles over to reputable businesses that have proper protocols in place. You must also inform the car wash employees that you will be collecting the vehicle, and no one else. | IOL Motoring
